Motion Time for class . . .
Classes change . . . Lunch time . . . School's out . . .
All these and more contribute to the almost constant motion of North and its 1725 residents.

Here we see students on the go between afternoon classes.

Motion . . . sound . . . before school . . . between classes . . . at lunch . . . at 3:03 . . . sound . . . motion . . . motion as ceaseless as if the wind-lashed waves of a stormy sea beat against a resisting coast.

Silence . . . stillness . . . the gentle chime of the class bell transforms the stormy waves into the placid, almost soundless ripples of a summer lake.

Classes . . . assembly . . . library . . . morning meditation . . . in all these quiet moments and places, the beating of a heart still echoes; it is only on weekends and holidays that the school becomes just another empty house whose heart is still, whose large family has gone away.

From one of the sermons of John Donne comes the famous quotation:

"No man is an island, entire of itself;
every man is a piece of the continent,
a part of the main."

Daily, North students prove this honored truth as they share the lives of their classmates and teachers; as they study the larger affairs of state, nation, and world. North students learn never to let their vision become bounded either by walls or their own personal horizons. They aspire always to being a distinguished part of the whole.

Sunlight sifting through leafy branches dapples the grass beneath with a lovely lacy pattern that is never the same, yet is eternally changeless.

Motion . . . purposeful, patterned confusion . . . silence . . . stillness . . . all are part of an ever changing, ever changeless design.

Motion . . . stillness . . . sound . . . silence . . . the CYNOSURE has captured them all and bound them for a lifetime, and more, within its dark covers.

Silence. An empty classroom over the weekends takes on an entirely different appearance from the one it wears during the week.

Silence. An empty school ground during holidays takes on the look of one during summer vacation.

Silence. An empty hall during classes adds much to the stillness at North.

*Jim,
we've been great knowing you these past years. See you this summer.

School opens,

As one leaves the highway, he sees North High between the trees in the distance.

Mrs. Martin captures the attention of her junior English class.

September 2, 1963, North High officially opens and many students from Northwest, Mineral Springs, and Hanes, see the school for the first time. Other students are well acquainted with the school by this time for they have been here for football practice, helping the Student Council with handbooks, or with the Anchor Club to put up bulletin boards. Still others spent much of their vacation time working for the Pep Club and helping the guidance counselors with schedules for hundreds of students.

The first day of school passes as smoothly as possible with Mr. Gibson, principal, welcoming the entire student body to the new school. For the opening session all students are crowded into the gym. Later during this first day, the seniors, juniors, and sophomores, are given their homeroom assignments and schedules. School closes early for this first day only.

The second day at North establishes the typical routine that is to prevail for the next 179 days till early June. Students have a chance to meet their teachers and classmates and also a chance for briefing on their new subjects.

By mid-September the school is running so well that one might think that it has been in operation for several years rather than a few short weeks. Immediately the students begin working as one unit rather than as three old rivals.

Students quickly board the buses, looking forward to a fun-filled weekend.

The first project for the student body is the magazine sale. Many students sell over a hundred dollars worth of magazine subscriptions. Senior Johnny Burt is the over-all winner selling $377.22 for his school. As the days and weeks pass, students begin calling new faces by name and make more acquaintances each day. It is an impossible task to get to know every student by name, but despite this fact, many students make an all-out effort to do it.

The Hi-Y and Key Club, two extremely active clubs, begin the year with worthwhile projects. Both clubs tend the concession stand at games.

The first big project of the Key Club is the Bundle Day drive. The Winston-Salem Kiwanis Club annually offers a trophy to the Key Club collecting the largest number of bundles. The North Club won the drive with over 1700 bundles. The trophy was North's first.

The Hi-Y takes on as their first project the back breaking job of moving bleachers from Northwest Junior High to North. These are used by North's opponents.

The guidance counselors are constantly on their toes and have Post High School Day planned early, since it is to be held at North. This is a day for juniors and seniors not planning to go to college. Students from several area schools come to North to listen to professional men and women talk about their careers.

Key Clubbers Larry Blackburn, John Dillard, Bruce Chambers, and Bill Park unload a bicycle for the Goodwill Industry while Artie Robb looks on.

Queen Janet and her escort, Curtis Miller, pose before a pleased audience.

Former homecoming queens from the feeder schools are introduced.

Sponsors and their escorts anticipate the arrival of the queen.

The first homecoming draws large crowds . . .

The Homecoming Court shares Janet's happiness at the announcement of the queen

Principal Julian Gibson crowns the queen

Cheerleaders give a cheer as they ride onto the football field

Soon after Post High School day seniors and juniors who do plan to go to college attend College Day at Southwest High School. Representatives of many colleges are on hand to answer questions and distribute literature. College Day enables students to get closer looks at the three schools they are most interested in attending

North's first homecoming, sponsored by the Student Council, is a tremendous success. Not only is a new queen picked but a forever-reigning queen is at the ceremony to represent each of the feeder schools. These girls are: Pat Gibson, Northwest Homecoming Queen; Verleen Hutchens, Mineral Springs Basketball Queen; and Angie Lambreth, Hanes Homecoming Queen. All these girls receive seats of honor for the crowning. They, along with the present day students, parents, and adopted alumni, see Janet Lynn Carter crowned as the first Homecoming Queen. Even though North lost it's ball game that night to 4-A Charlotte Harding, celebration still prevails. The festivities continue with a dance for the Queen and her court inside the gym. The members of the court are Beverly Pell, Judi Lawson, Martha Totten, and Jill Culler

Student Teachers and class rings arrive

After the school is running smoothly, student teachers begin to arrive from Salem, Appalachian State Teachers College, and Wake Forest. Miss Johnston, a future English teacher, expresses her happiness at North by saying on her last day that she wishes it were her first and would last forever. All student teachers are readily accepted as part of the school's family.

Along with student teachers, the seniors receive word that their classrings have arrived. These rings have red stones that were either cut, smooth, or encrusted with an "N". Envious juniors begin to look forward to also owning one of these rings.

Since North is new, so also are its components. Twenty eight clubs are formed. Some from old clubs at other schools and several brand new ones. An assembly is dedicated to informing students of these clubs. Every student can belong to a club if he wishes.

In November, the football season comes to an end with North losing only one conference game. School spirit and co-operation are high.

As November draws to a close, students are shocked as our PA system announces that the President of the United States has been shot while appearing in Dallas, Texas. At 2:32 P.M. confirmation of the tragedy causes students to react in various ways—many burst into tears, while others sit completely stunned. Silence prevails in the halls and classrooms. School closes this day with a minute of silent prayer for the President and the country.

With the assassination of a President, a damper is placed on the happiness of the Thanksgiving season, but spirit of giving remains in the hearts of the students as they bring boxes of food to be distributed to needy families of the community. The Student Council takes charge of this project.

basketball as the holiday approaches.

The school newspaper, The Norland, is given its name early by the Journalism classes. Shortly after this the annual is named Cynosure by a panel of students and teachers. The entire student body is invited to submit names for the yearbook.

A long awaited vacation comes to the students on December 20. On this last day of school for '63 one person from each homeroom accompanies members of the Student Council on a Christmas visit to our neighbors at Knollwood Hall, a home for the aged. Each resident of Knollwood is presented a gift and is entertained with Christmas carols sung by the students.

The Senior Y-Teens add to the Christmas spirit at North by placing an old fashioned Christmas tree in the office where all who pass can enjoy it. The Anchor Club girls and Student Council members decorate each room. The Anchor girls also draw names for "Anchor Waves" and exchange inexpensive gifts with unknown recipients each day. At a party in early January each girl learned the identity of her "wave," and received a worthwhile gift from her.

Before the holiday, only non-conference games are played, but the new year brings a full schedule of conference games. North is the first team to defeat the East Eagles in a conference game since their beginning in 1962

Exams are scheduled for January 22, 23, and 24. Each exam lasts two hours but the students do not have to attend classes between times. Many students come for a morning exam, go home, and then return for an afternoon exam. Students enjoy open lunch for three days

After exams and report cards, students are given a break to watch a talent show put on by North's own students. Any talented student could enter the show

As Valentine's Day approaches signs of Cupids work could be seen around school. Girls and boys exchange cards and girls worry about the weight they are going to gain from eating so much candy.

The Hi-Y sponsors a Valentine's Day dance in the gym on February 14, following the game with Southwest. Many couples turn out for this dance.

Members of the Key Club choose Carol King as their ideal girl and honor her with the title of Key Club Sweetheart. Ideal in every way, Carol is secretary of the senior class, a member of the girls' basketball team, and active in several school organizations.

With the election of officers in late January, juniors began to concentrate their efforts on plans for a junior-senior prom, the traditional highlight of the junior and senior years. Members of the junior class secretly chose the prom theme, "Island Paradise." Entertainment, decoration, invitation, and refreshment committees were appointed and plans for an effective and enjoyable presentation of the theme progressed. On May 2, junior class members were host to seniors in the school gym at a very successful dance.

Senior Y-Teen members, Cynthia Logan and Carol Smith, make courtesy cards for use during Twirp Week.

Seniors Jimmy Bleckley and Sheila Sizemore put college applications

The first year at North Senior comes quickly to an end. With excitement and some sadness North seniors receive letters of acceptance from colleges of their choice. They are excited because they are going to make a step ahead and are well prepared for it. They are sad because they have to leave North, never to return as a student and a member of North's happy, oversized family.

Much of the time during the last few weeks of school, seniors are together reminiscing about all the old times and planning occasions to get together after graduation. One of these final days is left for rehearsing of graduation exercises. Some students have to learn a new way of walking in order to get down the aisle without tripping or getting out of step.

Although many students hate to leave, June 4, 1964 soon approaches and the first senior class graduates at Wait Chapel on the Wake Forest College campus

Many of the seniors leave June 5, for an exciting week in New York at the World's Fair. Besides seeing the Fair, students see much of New York from the Empire State Building to the Statue of Liberty. Other items of interest on the tour are the U. N., Radio City Music Hall, and the famous Time Square

Some students decide against the New York trip in favor of the beach and the sun. Since the seniors are out a few days early, they are able to reach the beaches before the masses of underclassmen

A few days later, the remainder of the student body is dismissed from school, but with one thing to look forward to coming back in the fall of '64

The students ARE the school

It is not always easy to unite 1,781 students from three widely different schools into a strongly new-school centered group. North has had problems, of course, but they have gone down to defeat before the vigorous efforts of faculty and students who determined at the start to weld all groups into one strong, deeply loyal body.

The teachers at North are an important factor in school life. All of the instructors are extremely well qualified in their subject matter. They teach their classes as professionals. Each is concerned with the welfare of all of his students. The North teachers are always willing to help a student in need in any way they can.

Mr. Julian Gibson
Principal

Mr. Gibson, our beloved principal, friend, and adviser, has come to be a dominant figure in all our lives. Although his many responsibilities keep him constantly busy, he is ever ready to help a student with a problem or to offer encouragement.

Mr. Malcolm, our capable assistant principal and "announcement maker," lends his sense of humor and kind disposition to the students at North.

Giving their best efforts and inspiring high ideals in the students, these men have worked to make North High School the respected school she is.

This year North began a new program in physical education. Sophomores were required to relinquish their study hall three days a week to take part in gymnastic classes. This plan was adopted in compliance with the nation-wide program for youth fitness.

The physical education department stresses mental and physical alertness through participation in various drills, sports, and conditioning exercises.

Physical education classes enjoy dancing on Thursdays and Fridays.

The cooperative program in Distributive Education trains boys and girls in distributive businesses — wholesale, retail, and services. This program combines part-time work experience with in-school instruction to prepare students for future employment.

At North, the D.E. students have a three-period school day. One period is spent in a distributive education class where extensive study in the fields of salesmanship, advertising, and merchandising is encouraged. Each student leaves school to work at a specific job. This type of experience enables the student to apply the knowledge acquired through classroom study.

Before graduation from North, every student in accordance with the laws of our state, must have thirty days of classroom instruction in drivers' training. This provides the student with a practical knowledge of the mechanism of his car, laws regarding highway safety, and rules of common courtesy. Also included in the drivers' education program is the opportunity for thirty days of in-car instruction and experience.

STUDENTS

In its first year North's enrollment reaches a peak at 1,781. With this many students there is always more motion than silence.

The seniors are, as usual, the smallest class, having only 422 members. Even with their small number they hold their superiority over the underclassmen.

The junior enrollment runs close to the sophomore but needs a few more to top them. The junior enrollment is 626.

The sophomores out rank the other classes in number but have to yield to teasing and being called "green" because they are bottom men on our class totem pole. The sophomore enrollment is 641.

Seniors spend their last year of high school in a new school. This last year is filled with many unforgettable events. Among these are: the election of officers, college boards, college day, football games, dances, basketball games, North beating East twice, and many more.

Seniors, being the oldest, get privileges over the underclassmen. All students must stand when seniors enter or leave the assembly. Seniors are also first to leave and are given seats of honor during all assemblies.

Hours are spent in filling out application and scholarship forms. Each student must send transcripts, health forms, and application fees to each college to which he is applying.

Officers

Officers: Ronnie Taylor, Vice President; Bill Rasner, Treasurer; Janet Mabe, Secretary; and Richard Lavinder, President.

Juniors make their first year at North one of the busiest of their high school

Early in the year they make it their project to increase and aid school spirit. Many juniors spent extra hours helping the Pep Club make posters and signs

The biggest project of the year is the Junior-Senior Prom. Immediately after the election of officers, the theme is chosen and committees are appointed

As the year draws to a close, juniors become engulfed in the idea of soon being seniors and being eligible for senior privileges

Officers

Officers. Danny Grace, President; Go Adams, Vice President; Dennis Tuttle, Treasurer; and Pat Livengood, Secretary.

Sophomores devote the majority of their time during the year to gaining a name for themselves. They pattern their high school days after upperclassmen.

Sophomores are given charge of the School Spirit contest sponsored by a local radio station. During the month of the contest, petitions could be found on all flat surfaces.

Sophomores give their support in full force to the J.V. teams which are composed from their numbers. J.V. cheerleaders are also from the sophomore class.

Students

Inspire, influence, and improve.

We honor those students who have stood high in the area of academics. Seniors who maintain extremely high averages become "honor graduates" and the top eleven juniors become Junior Marshals

Members of all three classes who have high scholastic ratings may be inducted into one of the service or honor clubs

"When something needs to be done, call on a busy person." Most of these busy, hard working people spend many hours in service to teachers, in helping weaker students, in athletics, in general service to their school and to the organizations that happily enroll them as members

The Anchor Club, a service club for girls, is affiliated with Pilot International. Requirements for membership include a "C" average, evidence of leadership ability, and strong character.

Anchor Club objectives provide a directive for club activities:

To develop initiative and leadership, each member works on a committee and contributes suggestions for club projects,

To provide experience in living and working together, the club holds formal and informal meetings,

To serve the school and community, Anchor Club projects have included making visits to homes for the sick and aged, sponsoring a clothing drive for needy children in an elementary school, ushering at school and Community Center functions, volunteering time and service to the Heart Fund Drive, and making Christmas decorations for each room at North;

To cooperate with the school principal, each member upholds school rules in word and deed.

The North High Key Club, a chapter of Key Club International, is a service organization for boys dedicated to serving the school and community, promoting leadership and responsibility, and preparing members for useful citizenship. The Key Club annually initiates various activities which project its purposes. Among the services rendered this year by the Key Club were maintaining the concession stands during ball games, helping clean the entrance to the school, sponsoring dances, and donating a plaque for the school entrance. Topping all previous records, the Key Club captured first place in the Bundle Day Drive and won the trophy for the most bags collected.

Student Council

The Student Council played an important part in getting North off to a good start. Representatives met during the summer to decide on projects designed to smooth the path of hundreds of new students and to promote understanding through cooperation between the teacher and the student.

By assuming several responsibilities necessary to the proper functioning of the school, the Student Council proves its worth as a representative organization. Early in the year the group organized an Inter-Club Council, set up operation of the school store, provided monitors for the halls. The Student Council also takes charge of assemblies, plans and carries out Homecoming festivities, supervises hall bulletin boards, and lends a willing ear to the legitimate complaints of both faculty and students.

Students who earn letters for individual achievement in sports or cheerleading are eligible for membership in the Monogram Club. This year, members of the Monogram Club chose an "N" which will be presented to future inductees for their accomplishments in athletic fields. Also this year the Monogram Club sponsored a ball game between faculty and students and was host at several dances in the gym after home games.

Membership in the Girls' Monogram Club is open to any girl who has belonged to the Monogram Club at the school she attended last year. The Boys' Monogram Club is only open to those who have earned a North letter. When this picture was made only football, and cross-country boys had had a chance to earn their "N's" from North.

The clubs chose as their letter a tri-colored "N." The letter is outlined in crimson, and has blue around the white center.

Active clubs add to the motion at North. This first year sees twenty-eight clubs formed. Any interested student could belong to some club.

The clubs in this section are open to all students, rather than to a few by special invitation. They have performed many services for the school and community.

Clubs this first year have offered invaluable opportunities to their members in providing ways for meeting other students and learning to know many new people.

Students interested in a medical career have chances to hear talks by members of the medical profession and have made practical and interesting tours of medical centers. Future artists gather to trade secrets and reveal masterpieces while future residents of France learn to converse in the language of that country.

Many clubs meet only once a month while others decide to meet every week. Some clubs can't find a time to meet after school so they meet at night either at a member's home, at the school, or at a local restaurant.

Y-Teens serve.

The Y-Teens, composed of a sophomore, junior, and senior group, is a service club for girls which contributes both time and effort to serving the school and community.

Early this year each group of Y-Teens met and decided on a long-range project for the year. At monthly meetings follow-up discussions were held and plans were made for monthly projects such as treats for Knollwood Hall, Christmas gifts for needy families, clean-up details for the school parking lot, and "twirp week" activities. In addition, Y-Teens helped with the Trick or Treat for UNICEF campaign.

Inspiration for individual members through Christian fellowship is an objective of Y-Teens. Carefully planned program meetings and varied social events boost interest and enthusiasm for all club activities as well as fulfilling this objective.

Senior Y-Teen Officers: Ann Crowder, Secretary; Donna Collier, Treasurer; Pat Hoff, I.C.C. Representative; Susan Hauser, President; and Faith Anderson, Vice President.

Officers: Donna Jo Redding, Treasurer; Mary McGuire, Secretary; Judy Howard, President; and Larry Aley, Vice President.

Early this year the Red Cross combined with the P.H.O. to form the North High Pro Humanite Organization. This health-careers club fosters a wise choice of health careers, promotes a growing appreciation of the joys and satisfactions of these careers, and emphasizes the importance of personal and community health.

At North, the P.H.O. assumes care of the retarded children transferring from one bus to another in the mornings and maintains the First Aid Room. Other activities include tours of new medical centers, preparing tray favors for hospitals in Winston-Salem, and hearing interesting lectures on health career subjects by guest speakers.

Larry Aley, a member of the North club, was elected president of the state organization in January, 1964.

Science and Photography

Photography Club membership is open to any student interested in photography. Members of this organization pursue their interest by taking and developing a high percentage of the club and sports pictures used in our school newspaper, The Norland, and the school yearbook, Cynosure. Monthly meetings are held to offer the group a chance to discuss different phases of photography.

The science club, officially titled Biochemist Vikings, is open to all students who express an interest in either biological or physical fields of science. This club annually sponsors the science fair, a display of scientific projects open to all students, and traditionally donates equipment to the school labs.

First row: Mrs. Clifford, Miss Stephenson, S. Graves, C. Hunter, R. Bales, K. Gunter and P. Snow. Second row: M. McGuire, C. Jones, D. B. Johnson, D. Hartgrove, C. Keene, A. Thomas, M. Bunn, J. Knight, D. Stewart, and B. McKee. Third row: B. Burgess, R. Spillman, M. Keaton and D. Wallace.

During the year, the Contemporary Problems Club has become one of the most popular organizations at North. In open-minded discussions, student members learn to express their ideas concerning current problems. They also benefit from the views of guest speakers and lecturers. Club members were especially interested in the lecture on Communism presented by Dr. Smiley, professor of history at Wake Forest, and a panel discussion by Mrs. Clifford, Mr. Peoples, and Mr. Wilhem, on the Soviet-Sino Split.

The Debate and Discussion Society is composed of students who are interested in expressing their views through debate and discussion with other schools and fellow students. A group of four representatives represented North at the workshop at Chapel Hill in October to study improved methods of debating. The North High Debate Team, sponsored by the Debate and Discussion Society, ranks high among all competitors.

Officers: Alfred Stultz, Vice President; Karen Cockerham, Secretary; David Clifford, President; Ted Mendenhall, Treasurer; and Harvey Lineback, Program Chairman.

Officers: Dee Stewart, President; Jimmy Knight, Vice President; Pol Snow, Secretary; Mary McGuire, Publicity Chairman.

Library

No club in school has been, during this year, more active, more alert and lively, more helpful than our Library Club. Officially titled The NHS Chapter of NCLA, the library club has on its roll forty members who are devoted to their work and stick to it beyond the call of duty. This year, in addition to the usual services of most library clubs, these North students have maintained outstanding bulletin boards, floral arrangements, and seasonal displays

They are themselves fond of social occasions, and so welcome opportunities to entertain the faculty and special visitors at tea.

Making a scrapbook for state-wide competition engages many of their artistic abilities

Throughout the year they make plans for a formal prom to be held in May.

Pep Club encourages

Encouraging school spirit and good sportsmanship, Pep Club members exhibit enthusiasm for all phases of school life and devote much time and hard work helping the cheerleaders make posters, and "beat-um signs," and preparing clever skits for pep rallies. One of the most outstanding accomplishments of this year's Pep Club was the construction of a plywood Viking and two Viking heads for use in the gymnasium. The Pep Club sponsors dances and the King and Queen of School Spirit contest.

The first North High Bus Drivers' Club was organized in the fall of the 1963-64 school year. Its members consist of regular drivers and senior substitutes. Regular meetings are held in the school auditorium on the first and third Monday nights of each month. Mr. Eddleman, the Drivers' Education teacher, is the club's sponsor and advisor. The drivers are given pointers on ways to improve their driving by the principals of the schools they serve and by law enforcement officers. During February and March, the boys met each Monday night to receive a course in first aid. The members order monograms and stars to represent their years of service.

Screened by principals and teachers, these boys must be exceptionally good drivers; dependable, quick-thinking; and patient disciplinarians.

Only students in Distributive Education are eligible for membership in D.E.C.A.

Students in D.E. only attend classes in the morning and then work in their jobs in the afternoon.

In their club they get together to trade business secrets and discuss better job opportunities.

The language clubs at North are composed of first, second, or third year language students who maintain an active interest in the French, Spanish, or early Roman way of life. These groups often delight their fellow students by executing clever skits at assemblies, preparing traditional dinners of a particular country, and displaying projects which depict a national custom.

Art Club produces Future Artist

Members of the Art Club are art students who are interested in experimenting with various art projects outside the classroom. Several projects initiated by club members are oil painting, matting, and working with papier mache. Several Art Club members had entries in Scholastic Art Award competition. One member, Louise Currie, this year won a first place with her entry, a pencil sketch of a horse.

practice, progress, and perform.

With the wide variety of sports at North, practically every student who is sports minded can participate. Boys can participate in football, basketball, track, cross-country, baseball, wrestling, and golf. Girls can be in basketball, volleyball, and softball.

Building the body is as important as building the mind. North sports help to keep students physically fit.

Cheerleaders lead school spirit.

Jimmy, we've made it. And I am proud of us. Best of luck to you in the future. Love, Judy Attending summer practice sessions to master the intricacies of new yells, making beat drum signs to decorate bulletin boards and halls, developing new yells and clever skits, these are characteristic activities of our cheerleading squad. Contributing both time and effort beyond the call of duty, these nine girls have led their fellow students toward goals of greater unity and spirit.

By displaying enthusiasm for all athletic events, encouraging individual participation in various sports, and exhibiting good sportsmanship at all times, our cheerleaders have set a valuable precedent for future squads.

NORTH 6 — GRAY 7

There was a light drizzle falling as co-captains Mike Petree and Ed McGee led the Vikings out onto the field to meet Gray High School in the first football game in the history of North Senior High School.

North was first to score on a thirty-nine yard run by Jimmy Bovender early in the first quarter. The conversion attempt failed and the score remained six to nothing.

Late in the second quarter, Gray scored on a long drive climaxed by a nine yard drive by Tim Morgan. The try for the extra point was good and the score remained North 6, Gray 7.

NORTH 35 — SOUTHERN ALAMANCE 0

The Vikings' next foe was Southern Alamance. The Indians could not stand the pressure as Frank King, Dennis Young, John Thompson, Alan Dunnagan, and David Wallace each added six points to the score. Jack Culmer kicked two points to ambush the Indians 35-0.

NORTH 20 — SOUTHWEST 0

The Vikings traveled to Southwest for their first conference game. A good team effort enabled the Vikings to roll over the Trojans 20-0. The highlight of the game was a 96-yard run by Dennis Young. Dennis scored twice and Alan Dunnagan once. Jack Culmer kicked two extra points to complete the score.

NORTH 20 — EAST 27

"We want Eagle meat!" This was the cry in the halls of North Forsyth. It was on the minds of sophomores and seniors alike. On posters in the halls, and in the minds of the students, there was one dominant expression — Eagle meat!

The Viking eleven met the eagles at Bowman Gray Stadium. North led 13-0 in the first half but East managed to tie it at 20-20 late in the fourth quarter. It looked as if the Eagles would bow to the Vikings until East's quarterback, Charlie Warren, intercepted a pass and ran it in for a score. The final score, North 20, East 27.

NORTH 20 — SOUTH ROWAN 14

The powerful Vikings next traveled to South Rowan to meet the undefeated Rebels. Determined not to let the student body down, the Vikings played like men possessed. The score was tied 14-14 with David Wallace and Gerald Henley making touchdowns for North. With 48 seconds to play in the fourth quarter, Alan Dunnagan threw a 56-yard touchdown pass to Robert Cone. Jack Culmer kicked two extra points to defeat the Rebels. North 20, South Rowan 14.

NORTH 14 — HARDING 20

On October 11, 1963 North High School held its first homecoming. Dennis Young and Jimmy Boverder scored for the Vikings with Jack Culmer making both the extra point attempts. The Vikings led until the last few minutes when John Meeks of Harding intercepted a North pass to set up the final score of the game. The Vikings could not move the ball in the last thirty seconds of the game, so the score remained North 14, Harding 20.

NORTH 7 — R. J. R. 27

North traveled to Bowman Gray Stadium once again only to bow to Central 4-A champions, R. J. Reynolds' Demons. The Vikings' only score came on a 90-yard kick off return by Dennis Young. Jack Culmer kicked the extra point. North 7, R. J. R. 27.

The official calls to stop the clock while the pile-up is broken apart.

NORTH 30 — MOREHEAD 13

North next traveled to Morehead for an inter-conference game. Dennis Young led the Vikings to victory by throwing three touchdown passes, two to Jimmy Bovender and one to Robert Cone, then running the ball in for a score. Jack Culmer added six points to the score, three extra points and a field goal. North 30, Morehead 13.

NORTH 14 — GRIFFITH 7

Griffith traveled to North for the final conference game of the season. The Panthers scored quickly on a six-yard run but the Vikings retaliated with touchdowns by Dennis Young and Frank King. Jack Culmer turned in a fine performance with two more points to make the final score, North 14, Griffith 7.

NORTH 27 — REIDSVILLE 6

North played its last game of the season against the Reidsville Lions.

The Vikings had no trouble in downing the Lions, 27-6. Dennis Young scored three touchdowns, and Robert Cone scored one. Jack Culmer added three extra points.

Studying — Robert Dahmer does some last minute reference work before going to class

Anticipating — Chief cheerleader Judy Shelton awaits the outcome of the game

A few short months ago we approached North with a sort of fearful anticipation, and to our surprise, a kind of magical blending began at once. We knew it would happen, but we were not sure when. Loyalty, devotion, pride in our school have grown in our hearts with a swiftness beyond our original dreaming, and today we stand boldly united, facing the wind and the world from our beautiful hilltop. Our first year, which now draws to a close, has been successful and wonderful.

Sound and silence, motion and stillness.

Through the portals of memory the days have slipped on soundless wings. Where did they go? In wonder and amazement we ask ourselves the old question that has no answer. Eagerly we reach back to grasp and hold the pinioned hours, the lovely days; but shadows are fleeting and the pursuing feet are but mortal, and therefore slow and plodding.

Perhaps this yearbook will fulfill the dreams of those who fashioned it and hold open for us the magic door. Perhaps it will keep undimmed many cherished reflections of our yesterdays.
